DISCRETIONARY AUTHORITY TO COMMANDERS OF CRUISERS. sued Last Week.

Washington, Nov. 22.—Secretary Daniels today cabled Captain Decker of the weser Tennessee and Captain Oman he cruiser North Carolina, in the eastern Mediterranean giving them discretionary authority to deal with emergencies that might arise in protecting American citizens and their interests in Turkey. The secretary rescinded the order which he sent last week, directing both commanders to take no action whatsoever pending an investigation on the firing on the Tennessee's launch at Smyrna. Although an official explanation of the Turkish foreign office has not yet been received, informal assurances of the Ottoman ministers of the interior and war to Ambassador Moriginhau that the shots were fired as a friendly warning to inform the launch as was customary that the harbor of Smyrna was mined and closed have been accepted as the forerunner of a formal statement by the grand vizier to the same effect.

Secretary Daniels thought it advisa-ble to place the American naval com-manders again under the navy regu-lations, which had been temporarily suspended, but cautioned them in 'he ose of their discretionary authority. The regulations virtually give naval commanders in isolated parts of the globe the authority to take measures deemed necessary to protect lives of Americans. They might even bom-bard a fown in an extreme case.
